Other SATO applications for the Retail Industry

Food safety/certification labelling

To ensure safety for consumption, food suppliers have to comply to food standards & regulations such as HACCP, BRC (UK). Equipped with real-time calendar function, SATO's TH2 printer can help you to print food safety labels with 'Prepared' and 'Use-By' dates to be labelled on pre-prepared or pre-packaged foods. Our solutions are also highly relevant for food suppliers that require featuring food certification logos such as the Halal Certification, Organic Food Certification, etc.

Radio Frequency Identification (RFID) Technology

Increasingly, more retailers are starting to implement Radio Frequency Identification (RFID) Technology to their businesses and they have begun to realize the benefits of this technology. If you're a retailer who is serious in growing your business, RFID technology is what you should look into to bring your business to the next level.

RFID technology can help you to:

- Improve visibility and accurate tracking of inventory to prevent out-of-stocks and other inventory problems
- Monitor and improve store operations through accurate and timely stock replenishments
- Ensure on-shelf availability by making sure that you have the right product at the right place at the right time
- Minimise theft when integrated with your store's security system

Do your part to contribute towards a sustainable world

To reduce food wastage at the end of each business day as well as do their part for the environment, UNY Co., Ltd. decided to use SATO's ECONANO labels for discount labels across over 200 of its Piago and Apita supermarkets on a huge number of products. As ECONANO labels enable 20% reduction in CO2 emission at the point of incineration, UNY saw it as an excellent tool for them to fulfill their responsibilities towards the environment and hope that customers will appreciate their effort in protecting the environment.
